Senate Asks Milliken For 'Honest' Estimate Conflicting Budget Figures Confuse Lawmakers

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Confused over conflicting budget figures, the Senate will ask Gov. William Milliken to submit in writing his "latest up-to-date" fiscal estimates.

The Senate Friday approved a motion by Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, to "respectfully request" that Milliken also commit himself in writing to the need for a continuation of the 50 per cent income tax hike passed last July. The hike will expire next Aug. 1 unless continued by the legislature.

The Senate failed to vote Friday on continuing the tax after Sen. Harry DeMaso, Taxation Committee chairman, charged that the State's 1972-73 budget of $2.27 billion may fall $53 million to $73 million in the hole. Milliken expects an $11 million surplus.

DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, said the governor "assumes we'll have full employment and that profits will be much higher."

DeMaso, who says he got his figures from many of the same departments Milliken consulted, said revenues for the new fiscal year will be only 7 per cent to 8 per cent.

Milliken's budget predicts about a 13.5 per cent revenue jump. DeMaso said he will vote against continuing the tax because "I don't think we're getting the honest facts from the Governor's Office."

The so-called "temporary" tax pumped an estimated $250 million into the state treasury.

It is highly unlikely the legislature will let the tax lapse on its Aug. 1 deadline. Milliken's budget assumes it will be continued.

Young said he would vote for continuing the tax, or even raising it, but charged that available figures are questionable.

"We need more accurate projections. There may be a serious underestimate of welfare case loads that could cost an added $40 million," Young said.

DeMaso tossed the tax continuation bill from his committee to the Senate Appropriations Committee earlier in the week, claiming he wouldn't "rubberstamp" the measure.

Lawmakers want to pass the bill "as soon as possible so voters will forget about it at election time" next November, DeMaso said.

Sen. Charles Zollar, Appropriations Committee chairman who recommended that the bill be approved, said future revenues are based on "fairly safe estimates."

"It is impossible in my mind to cut $300 million out of the budget," added Zollar, R-Benton Harbor.

The tax continuation would remove any reference to an expiration date or public votes on tax issues.

The hike from 2.6 per cent to 3.9 per cent, approved with corresponding increases in the corporation and financial institutions taxes, got through the legislature last year only because of the special rider providing for the lapse and public votes.

As written, the law provides the tax rate will slip back to 2.6 per cent Aug. 1 unless the public gets to vote in November on property tax relief or permitting a graduated income tax.

The legislature later found itself unable to agree on a measure to submit to voters. So Republican Gov. Milliken and the State Democratic Party decided to undertake petition campaigns for ballot measures.

The information, it said, was provided by James Phelan, a free-lance investigative reporter who collaborated with former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich on a forthcoming book about the industrialist.

Phelan spent Friday helping both McGraw-Hill and Time piece together details on how the Hughes book was assembled. Time said it would release these details in a cover story in next week's Time magazine.

Relief For U.S. Cities? Lear Demonstrates Vapor-Power Engine

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Bill Lear has rolled out his first vapor-powered turbine engine vehicle for public inspection and predicts it will help clear the smog from U.S. cities.

The 69-year-old industrialist-inventor who developed the Lear Jet says he has spent $12 million and five years in developing the engine which powered a bus at the display for 200 persons Friday.

Entertainer Art Linkletter, a member of the Lear Motor Corp. board of directors, said, "We have smog now where they never thought it would be. It's virtually everywhere. Vehicles are the villain and Bill Lear's steam engine may well be the means to solve this problem we face."

"I want to see it operating. I want to see some facts and figures," said Peter Bertoglio, western regional director for the U.S. Department of Transportation.

"We don't know enough about it to say what action—if any—the department will take."

In short demonstration runs, observers noted that the bus' steam power plant—which fits in the standard engine compartment—provides quieter, smoother acceleration than the standard diesel motor. Otherwise, the ride was like that of a normal bus.

three under contract with California agencies working on a low pollution bus under a Department of Transportation allocation.

"If I can drive up in front of the Capitol in Washington, D.C., with a bus which is as pollution-free as this one, the auto industry can no longer complain it can't be done," Lear said.

Warren Dorn, a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, said the Lear-developed steam engine might well be the salvation of the Los Angeles basin—where four million vehicles dump 13,000 tons of fumes into the air each day. Lear said General Motors Corp. sold him the bus for $1 because "they didn't want the

Capp Pleds Guilty To Morals Charge

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) — Cartoonist Al Capp has pleaded guilty to one of three morals charges resulting from accusations made by a university coed last spring.

The other two charges were dropped Friday. Capp, 62-year-old creator of L'il Abner, was fined $500 and court costs.

Circuit Court Judge Merrill Farr said the alternative to paying the fine and costs would be one year in prison.

"You are a public figure," Farr told Capp. "I don't think you'll ever seriously be tempted to do something like this again."

Shortly after his arraignment, Capp pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted adultery. He also had been charged with sodomy and indecent exposure.

County Dist. Atty. Lawrence W. Durning told the court there had been an agreement between the state and Capp's attorneys for Capp to plead guilty to attempted adultery and the state to seek dismissal of the other charges.

Durning recommended that Capp be placed on probation, on condition that he receive psychiatric treatment.

Farr rejected the request and said he felt Capp had harmed himself to such an extent he would not attempt such actions again.

Capp, of Cambridge, Mass., was arrested last April after a lecture at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire.

Mr. Edison Would Be Puzzled

Friday was Thomas Alva Edison's birthday. Known as the "Wizard of Menlo Park," the late Mr. Edison invented the incandescent electric light, among other things.

What happened Friday in a Benton Harbor office building probably would have puzzled Edison. Somebody was tampering with his equipment.

Benton Harbor police said it actually began Thursday when the manager of building D of the 777 Riverview drive office complex, noted that he saw a youth enter and leave a men's restroom. Soon afterward, metal plates covering two light switches were discovered missing, the manager said. The same youth was observed again Friday entering the restroom. Two switch cover plates that had been replaced for the stolen ones vanished when the youth left.

Police were called and soon afterward officers arrested a 16-year-old Benton township boy on a charge of larceny from a building. The plates were recovered, along with some plumbing parts reported stolen from the Owens service station, Empire and Woodward.

Oh yes, Edison, who invented the incandescent lamp in 1879, was born Feb. 11, 1847, and died on Oct. 18, 1931, at age 84.

'Life' Drops Plans To Print Part Of Irving Manuscript

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Life magazine says it has canceled plans to publish excerpts from a purported autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes after determining that the manuscript is a hoax perpetrated by Clifford Irving.

The magazine's parent company, Time, Inc., dropped the agreement with McGraw Hill, Inc., on Friday, and said in a statement it had learned "how Irving put together the manuscript and carried out this hoax."

McGraw-Hill announced later it was still reconsidering its contract with Irving to publish the manuscript as a book but had "discovered additional information concerning a possible source of the material."

The information, it said, was provided by James Phelan, a free-lance investigative reporter who collaborated with former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich on a forthcoming book about the industrialist.

Phelan spent Friday helping both McGraw-Hill and Time piece together details on how the Hughes book was assembled. Time said it would release these details in a cover story in next week's Time magazine.

The Railsplitter's Birthday

Abraham Lincoln, born 162 years ago today, is a fascinating study in greatness.

Though not an economist, he was one of the few and the first in his generation to appreciate that the emotions engendered by slavery and the dialectic differences from region to region were mere surface indications of a deeper cause; that two ways of life, the agrarian pattern in the southern states and the emerging industrialization in the northern areas, were fast cementing into an utter incompatibility.

Some means, he determined in his earlier political career which was far from a resounding success, would have to be found to get two sets of eyes to look through a common telescope.

This first surfaced in the Lincoln-Douglas debates during the 1858 Illinois Senatorial contest.

Douglas spoke for a widely prevalent view of that day which in its logical extension would apply today's concept of no-fault divorce to national affairs.

Squatter sovereignty, the local option on slavery in the new territories coming under permanent settlement, was highly regarded as an exercise in the best tradition of a neighborhood determining for itself how it should manage its affairs.

Lincoln himself had advocated it at one time.

Douglas reminded him of that position during one stopover in their tour through the Illinois countryside.

Fully aware he faced an audience already committed to his opponent, Lincoln took the calculated risk in his famous reply, "A house divided against itself can not stand."

The statement, broadly couched as it was, could be interpreted in several ways.

It cost him the election to Douglas because the Abolitionists, then regarded in Illinois as the hippie generation, immediately claimed Lincoln as their champion.

Though it added to the popularity already enjoyed by Douglas, the message created an impact beyond the state lines which two years later propelled Lincoln into the White House.

Many students of the Lincoln era are convinced he decided to deploy an uphill fight against Douglas for bigger stakes later on; that he was banking on people in the northern states to wake up to the peril of neighborhood determination of slavery's emotionalism creating small independent satrapies which could fall prey to a foreign power.

France's Napoleon III did play on this situation during the Civil War's progress when he sent an occupation force into Mexico in plain defiance of the Monroe Doctrine. Not until the Union forces prevailed at home did our State Department feel sufficiently confident to inform Napoleon that his presence was unwelcome.

Lincoln, rightfully, is regarded as one of the politicians of all time.

He had to be in order to pull the United States together.

The alternative would have been a dictator in the mold of an Alexander, a Caesar, a Cromwell or a Lenin. Had the Civil War been won through that approach, the reader would be living under circumstances totally foreign to him.

The man did not lack for detractors.

The strong men in his own party viewed his postwar plans with disgust and horror; Southerners generally depicted him as descending from Genghis Khan; the Northern intellectuals painted him as an idiot; and the Abolitionists, even after the Emancipation Proclamation, never fully accepted him as a defender of the faith.

The normal pattern for many politicians, when buffeted by sharply conflicting forces, is to retreat to neutral ground.

It provides the vantage point from which they may spot a path and the time to size up the relative strengths in those contesting vectors.

There's nothing too abhorrent when the technique is confined to getting re-elected to the city hall or even the state legislature. It does not foster leadership, but neither does it hurt too many people at any given time.

The Presidency and a national emergency constitute something else.

Lincoln recognized this obligation. He also recognized the futility in fighting more than one distracting brush fire at a time when the forest before him is flaming.

He solved the problem by directing the brush fires toward one another so he could concentrate on the big fire.

This requires a skill which not all of us can display.

Probably it is this trait which makes Lincoln so appealing.

He had an uncommon store of common sense.

'White Elephant' For Sale

The French government is trying to unload the biggest white elephant of all time, the $600-million Maginot Line of fortresses which, true to military tradition, was built to fight the next war according to the last war's strategies.

For years, the government tried to persuade the army to give up the long abandoned line, which the National Geographic describes as a 300-mile chain of buried battlements. Finally, in November, the first forts were put up for auction. All but the largest installations will be on sale this year.

The forts have one thing going for them, a panoramic view of Germany's similar folly, the Siegfried Line.

Editor, THE HERALD-PRESS BENTON HARBOR NEEDS DRUG CENTER

I read with some interest the article in your February 8, edition regarding the Benton Harbor council's 8 to 1 vote against the establishment of a drug treatment center to be located in the former Reiser Mortuary at 446 Pipestone street.

It was stated by a certain member of the city commission that "most persons would not want to be seen entering such a center out of shame."

It was also stated that "methadone treatments, planned for use at the center as an agent to counter heroin addiction would be swapping the devil for the witch." Also that this would "come at a time when businesses are leaving and the city cannot handle a center that would serve to drive away more business."

According to Lawrence C. Tice, executive director of the Berrien County Drug Treatment Center, Inc. "There are 45 known heroin addicts in the area, 31 now actually reside in the corporate limits of Benton Harbor, while 14 reside either in Benton township or other outlying areas."

Pursuant to the aforementioned article, it was stated in the Wednesday, February 9, edition by Berrien Sheriff Forrest Jewell that "the single, most significant and disturbing crime increase (countywide) has been in the area of narcotics. During the period 1967-1970, prisoners received at the Berrien county jail on narcotic offenses increased a total of 1,453.3 per cent." He emphasized "the need for a unified law enforcement effort in addressing not only the problem of narcotic law violations, but drug education as well."

It seems to me that the city of Benton Harbor which is in need of help in a multitude of areas in order to succeed, would welcome the existence of a drug treatment center located in the city rather than trying to avoid, divert or otherwise ignore the problem, and have the center located somewhere else where it won't be noticeable to the general public, and harder to obtain transportation to and from for the main group that it is trying to serve.

It must be obvious that this is a pressing problem for the city and county, and accounts for many of the crimes committed by addicts in order to maintain their habit. Like venereal disease, a "social" disease which people avoid speaking about, drug addiction and rehabilitation, seemingly according to the city commission, can be treated as long as it is not done in an area where people can "see the actual treatment."

However, this will not solve this very real problem, and the people who need help and treatment should be no more ashamed being "seen" entering a rehabilitation center than those entering the offices of a doctor or dentist. Besides, the location of this center is not in the "heart" of the city, or at least not where I consider it to be.

As to the use of methadone as a substitute for heroin, from what I have read on the subject, it is the most practical solution at the present time for superseding the heroin habit and substituting a drug that does not have a prohibitive cost, thus breaking the chain of addicts having to steal in order to maintain the habit, and, therefore, reducing the crime rate in the city and county.

Rather than "swapping the devil for the witch," it seems to be rather the lesser of two evils at the moment, especially when you consider that methadone does not give the user a "high" like heroin and does not produce a distortion of behavior so that the user can conceivably become a productive member of society again, working, paying taxes to support the government, and possibly eventually breaking the habit completely because his life pattern will have changed.

As long as the city of Benton Harbor is trying to realistically move ahead, for instance, finally electing a black mayor when a majority of its citizens have been black for some time, it might as well face the statistics on the number of drug addicts within the city, as well as the county, and do something about them.

I would think, that if this problem was discussed realistically with businessmen in the area, as well as prospective businessmen, a drug treatment and rehabilitation center located in the city would only serve to show that Benton Harbor is really trying to solve its own problems.

Bruce Blosser Early Primaries May Thin Ranks

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The early Florida and Wisconsin primaries could very well be the graveyard of 1972 hopes for three or four Democratic presidential bidders.

Despite brave talk from some camps these days about "moral victories," this is not the year when consistently losing vote performances are going to keep the old circulation going. Money is too scarce, and it is going to dry up fast for losers.

Of course, every candidate is on test in the first spate of primaries in March and April. But they are more critical for some than for others. A few examples:

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, presently a strong second to Sen. Edmund Muskie in the national Gallup Poll, probably has to run ahead of Muskie in either Florida or Wisconsin—and preferably both.

One fairly independent source sympathetic to Humphrey thinks he has to outdo Muskie in Florida by from five to 10 points to make any kind of dent on the broad center of Democratic voters who now lean to the Maine senator. (Only a few appraisers believe either man will beat Gov. George Wallace for first in Florida. The race is thought to be for second place.)

If Humphrey has not shown a winning hand by Wisconsin on April 4, he may very well be through. He could hang on for a desperate comeback try three weeks later in the Pennsylvania primary, where he has acknowledged heavy labor support. But earlier primary failures would hobble him there—and the money would be getting very tight.

Sen. George McGovern is another who has to put something together fast. He can't survive with a string of defeats in New Hampshire, Florida, Illinois and Wisconsin, even if his showings "better than expected" didn't help him that New York's Mayor John Lindsay bested him in Arizona in late January. His effort to make a 35-23 defeat in Iowa's precincts look like an upset doesn't carry. It says much that he battles openly with Lindsay for fourth place in Florida.

Lindsay's candidacy is also very much on the line. His skillfully managed surprise showing in Arizona gave his camp its first real lift. Yet, after all, he won less than a fourth of the 18 per cent of registered Arizona Democrats who came out in the state's preliminary district meetings.

His talented aides will have to get him a lot more in Florida and Wisconsin to color him plausible as a contender. If he merely leads the pack of also-rans by running fourth, it won't do.

Then there's Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, who truly is giving his all in Florida. It's supposed to be his turf, but right now he's slipping on it. Wallace is said to be killing him in conservative sectors where he should be strong. Very possibly, however, Jackson's prospects have been overstated all along.

Jeffrey Hart New Bloodbath In Bangladesh?

Listening to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi announce the new government in Dacca would observe the Geneva Convention, and offer India's assurances that such would be the case, I was uncomfortably reminded of a famous passage in "Gulliver's Travels" describing the Emperor of the kingdom of Lilliput:

"It was a custom introduced by this prince and ministry (very different, as I have been assured, from the practices of former times) that after the court had decreed any cruel execution, either to gratify the monarch's resentment, or the malice of a favorite, the Emperor always made a speech to his whole Council, expressing the great lenity and tenderness, as qualities known and confessed by all the world. This speech was immediately published through the kingdom; nor did anything terrify the people so much as those encomiums on His Majesty's mercy; because it was observed, that the more these praises were enlarged and insisted on, the more inhuman was the punishment, and the sufferer more innocent."

Accounts in the press, and statements by self-appointed authorities like Sen. Edward Kennedy, give the impression that Bangladesh is a relatively homogeneous nation inhabited by Bengalis. Were that the case there might be grounds for mild optimism about stability in the East. Unfortunately, Bangladesh is a highly complicated ethnic mix.

The now dominant Bengalis, whose guerrilla arm, the Mukti Bahini, will now set up the new regime, themselves consist of both Hindus and Moslems. At the moment, this religious difference has been submerged by Bengali nationalism, but it is anybody's guess how long it will remain submerged.

There is also a large population of Moslem West Pakistanis. They have migrated from the west and, until the uprising and invasion, provided much of the business and administrative talent in the East. An educated guess is that not many of these will escape with their lives.

In addition, there are large numbers of Urdu-speaking inhabitants who migrated to East Pakistan from Bihar at the time of the 1947 partition. So far the spokesmen for the Bangladesh regime have been ominously silent about the plight of the Biharis.

The Bengali nationalists, indeed, regard the Biharis as sympathetic to the government in West Pakistan and as collaborators with it. What is almost surely in the offing, therefore, is a new flood of refugees — those, that is, fortunate enough to escape the slaughter. Only this time the refugees will be Biharis and West Pakistanis instead of Bengalis. For 24 years these disparate groups have lived in a state of settled hatred, the civil order maintained only by the central government. These hatreds have now been compounded by the savage repression of the Bengalis. And now that India, for reasons of power politics — but behind a screen of pious moralisms — has seized the opportunity to strike a blow at Pakistan, the slaughter has probably only just begun.

"Yoo-hoo, young man! You've taken longer than 30 seconds to break into that car!"

Big Crowd Expected At Math 'Field Day'

Twin City area mathematics teachers have calculated their second annual "Math Field Day" Saturday, Feb. 26 will draw a lot more than the 450 who participated last year.

The field day, a two and a half-hour exercise in a variety of math fun and games, will be held at Milton Junior High School, 1520 Niles avenue, St. Joseph, 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Letters inviting junior high age students, those in the sixth to ninth grade, have gone out to 17 Berrien school districts. While the field day is free each student attending must have a ticket. Tickets can be obtained from math teachers. Last year after the ticket deadline passed there was a heavy demand for tickets. This year Mrs. Jack Sprague, of Lakeshore, field day chairman, urged math teachers to get ticket requests in early so no one will be disappointed.

Tickets are necessary, Mrs. Sprague explained, because all of the events of the field day are supervised and it is necessary to know how many teachers will be required to run the various events.

All activities are related to mathematics and the fun theme is designed on the theory "that all work and no play makes a dull subject,"

Mrs. Sprague said. Added to the list of events are electronic calculators, mobiles, coordinates and graphing, topology, chess and tangrams.

The list of events and the teachers were listed by Mrs. Sprague and Ron Dirkse, Lakeshore math teacher and president of the Twin Cities Area Math Council.

The events are as follows: curve stitching, Gloria Vanderbeck, Lakeshore; space spider, Jim Sanford, Lakeshore; line designs, Andreane Heathcote, Lakeshore; polyhedrons, Jean Smith, Benton Harbor; Arlene Stacey, Dick Brame, Benton Harbor and Tom Porter, Lakeshore.

Paper folding, Lou Anne Lawrence, Lake Michigan Catholic; Geoboard, Ken Weber, Benton Harbor, Wes Platt, Coloma; mobiles, Bill Wilkinson, Lakeshore; probability, Jeff and Judy Holden, Benton Harbor; Art Schultz, St. Joseph; coordinates and graphing, Elmer Dobberstein, Michigan Lutheran and Bill Bugg, St. Joseph; topology, Ed Shaffer, Lake Michigan college.

Equations game, Don Colli- son, Coloma; chess, Al Beebe, Benton Harbor electronic calculators, Mary Reed, Doug Corteville, Eddie Johnson and Robert Mervin, Benton Harbor; soma cubes, Dennis Brueck, Lakeshore; game room, Helen Huber, Robert Sexton, St. Joseph; Shirley Stansberry, Benton Harbor; Alice Mow, Coloma; tangrams, Grace Piontek, Joe Weststein, Coloma.

Don Buzye of Benton Harbor will be director of traffic and Dirkse will assist Mrs. Sprague.

The calculators are being furnished by Donn Ernsberger of South Bend, Ind. and Harry Parrell and Al (Bud) Monoit of Benton Harbor.

Meeting Date Is Changed

The monthly meeting of the Berrien County Parks and Recreation commission will be moved up one day to Wednesday, Feb. 16, according to announcement by Bun Baldwin of Bridgman, chairman.

The change from the regular Feb. 17 date was made because of a conflict with another meeting that a number of the commission members wish to attend, he indicated.

The commission meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. in Room 101 in the courthouse in St. Joseph.

Hutchinson-Zollar Feud Flares Over Remap Plans

The air may be chilling and the snow is undeniably in plain sight, but the weather in no way dims the flame under the political pot.

This is an election year, that biennial period when Republicans and Democrats, toward each other and as between themselves, are flashing the F-O-F signals (militaresse meaning identify yourself as friend or foe).

Ed Hutchinson, the Fourth district's congressman, and Charles Zollar, this area's state senator who wouldn't mind graduating into Hutchinson's seat, are squared off on congressional redistricting.

Hutchinson implies his fellow Republican is something of a stone in the shoe or a hair in the shirt.

Zollar replies that the gentleman from Fennville doesn't know what's going on or what he's talking about.

This difference of opinion evolves from the tricky business of redistricting the 19 congressional (House) seats to which Michigan is entitled.

The courts' one man-one vote decisions require this be done not less than each time the U.S. decennial census is taken.

Prior to 1964, when one man-one vote began to bare its teeth, the Fourth District comprised Berrien, Cass, Allegan, Van Buren, St. Joseph and Barry counties. The re-apportionment that year dropped Barry and added Branch and Hillsdale counties.

The effect is an L-shaped area stretching as far east to directly below Jackson.

Now that the 1970 census tally is on record, the state legislature, according to the Michigan constitution, must re-align the 19 districts because population changes in most of them, including the Fourth, so dictate.

Two political schools of thought are at work on the project, thus far not at all in harmony.

The 12 Republican and the seven Democratic congressmen favor keeping their districts in their present form, if possible, or tinkered with to the barebones minimum.

The Fourth, for example, would change only by taking on the south half of Barry county.

The Democrats in the state legislature and in their state central committee don't agree with this incumbency coziness whatever.

They see possibilities in balancing up the 12-7 ratio if some territorial borders can be altered.

They have presented several ideas to this effect, and the GOP minority in the legislature has filed counter- ing plans.

One Democratic suggestion called for taking Hutchinson's home base of Allegan county from him and then shuffling him around so that conceivably he and Jerry Ford, of Grand Rapids, the House minority leader, might lock horns in a primary.

The GOP stopped that one, mainly because Zollar exercised a deciding vote against it.

Such a move is widely considered beneficial to Democratic Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine. Muskie has strong support from the United Auto Workers union, a chief political force in the state.

But Speaker William A. Ryan, an influential UAW member and Muskie supporter, said the bill would be put up for a vote again early next week, possibly on Monday night.

Ryan said he opposed further postponing the May 16 date—the Senate passed a bill specifying May 9—but predicted "a long, long line of new amendments."

Republicans and Democrats held lengthy caucuses Friday on the primary issue. By the time the House reconvened after noon, absenteeism doomed prospects for action on several proposals.

Rep. Michael A. Dively, R- Traverse City, won GOP approval to demand a vote on his own bill calling for a May 9 primary without the companion election of precinct delegates that Democrats seek.

Instead, presidential hopefuls would run with a slate of handpicked delegates.

Dively's bill represents the proposal originally advanced by Gov. William Milliken to counter Democrats' bid for an April delegate election. Dively did much of the initial research on the governor's proposal.

Democrats, meanwhile, turned up with two other proposals reflecting different attitudes toward accommodating or fending off liberal and conservative extremists in their own ranks.

One of the two, prepared by Ryan himself, suddenly became identified as the literary property of Rep. Jackie Vaughn, a black Detroit Democrat who sufficient size to warrant duplication of this expensive facility. The medical staff of the hospital has recommended to the board that the needs of the patients of this community requiring such therapy would be better served by using higher powered units available in nearby communities.

The medical staff and the board of trustees will study the needs for supervoltage therapy in the area and plan to develop this when the need can be demonstrated. It was pointed out that at Mercy the new west building was designed so that a new structure could be added in the future for supervoltage therapy. The estimated cost for providing such service is about $250,000. In addition, specialized personnel, such as a physicist and a radiotherapist, would be needed to supervise and render treatment in a supervoltage therapy unit.

It was the recommendation of the medical staff to the board of trustees of Mercy that the cardio-vascular service at the hospital be refined and expanded to meet the pressing need for diagnosis and treatment of cardio-vascular disorders.

Patients needing this type of treatment will be advised by their physician as to the need. All physicians have information on the availability of supervoltage facilities and will make arrangements for their patients to receive such treatment when indicated.

Mercy Hospital X-Ray Therapy Is Discontinued

Mercy Hospital department of radiology announced today that the x-ray therapy service at the hospital was being discontinued. Henry J. Klos, M.D., radiologist at Mercy Hospital, explained that the unit that has been in use for the past 20 years is now considered inadequate for radiotherapy by modern standards.

The new techniques used in radiotherapy call for supervoltage equipment which is now available in both South Bend and Kalamazoo. The Cobalt unit and the linear accelerator unit which is used in present day therapy situations is both highly specialized equipment and highly expensive.

"If you add 120,000 people from metropolitan Kalamazoo into our district, Berrien county will no longer be the major factor in the Fourth."

"It doesn't worry me, but I'd think people in Berrien county would not be too happy in playing second fiddle to Kalamazoo," declared Hutchinson.

"Why should Sen. Zollar be pushing this?" he added.

Not knowing, we contacted Zollar who between bouts with the Democrats about raising the state income tax, advised:

"The congressman doesn't know what he's talking about."

"First of all, the Democrats here at Lansing don't go along, as he claims, with the congressional plan."

"Secondly, the Fourth district is too strung out as it is; and adding part of Barry county to it would create a 270-mile long U-shaped thing that nobody can properly cover."

"Finally, although I voted for the congressional plan, I did offer and still support the idea of making all the districts more compactly shaped than they are now. Adding Kalamazoo city to our District would only bring in 80,000 new people, not the

Primary Bill Snagged Again

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill setting up a May 16 presidential primary election for Michigan bogged down again in the House Friday as new quarrels erupted within and across party lines.

The delay and evident frustration advanced skeptical speculation that the proposal might eventually be thwarted.

Man, 72, Is Cut By Broken Glass; Woman Arrested

Benton Harbor police said the jagged edge of a broken drinking glass was used during an attack early this morning against 72-year-old David Brooks, who required 25 stitches during treatment at Mercy hospital.

Patrolman George John said Brooks went home after treatment, but a woman, who also was cut and required 10 stitches, was booked on a felonious assault charge and lodged in the county jail.

The attack occurred in the dining room of a home at 392 Washington street, where both rent rooms. Patrolman John said Brooks told of being attacked about the forehead for no apparent reason, while seated at the dining room table about 2:45 a.m.

Arrested was Vera Suell, 46. Her injury was a cut index finger of the left hand, John said. John said Brooks sustained severe cuts about the forehead, one of which was about three inches long.

Several thousand dollars worth of personal property was reported stolen during house burglaries investigated yesterday and early today by Twin Cities area police.

Timothy Hampton told Benton Harbor police Friday that certificates representing purchases of stocks, valued at about $2,000, were among items stolen from his home, 147 Nowlen street. Also reported stolen were a radio, three watches, a ring, bank checkbook and savings passbook and a bag containing $60 in silver dollars and half-dollars. Total value was listed at $2,769.

Also in Benton Harbor, Jessie Jones said Friday that a tape recorder, man's suit, woman's wig, radio, cufflinks and 200 pennies, totaling about $334, were stolen from his home, 855 East High street.

Berrien county sheriff's officers Friday investigated a burglary at the home of Dale Cosper, 6050 Grand Mere, Stevensville, where an electric blanket, radio, tools and miscellaneous household items, valued at some $150, were reported stolen.

Benton township police early this morning investigated reports of burglaries at the homes of Willie Jones, 907 Waukonda; Willie Anderson, 1061 Highland; and John Wade, 134 Burton.

Township police said a television set was stolen from the Jones residence. Rooms in the other homes were ransacked, but lists of missing items were not yet completed by the owners.

Besides house burglaries state police of the Benton Harbor post, on Friday morning investigated a break-in at Dogpatch bar, River road, Sodus township, where about $150 was reported stolen from a pried open coin box of a juke box. Troopers were told that the money was to have been removed from the machine shortly after the burglary was discovered.

Tigers Topple Hackett In Colfax Farewell

By JIM DeLAND
Sports Editor

It's too bad that Benton Harbor's basketball team has no more home games this year.

A near-capacity crowd of more than 2,700 fans certainly would be receptive to an encore after watching the Tigers roll to an 84-73 victory over Kalamazoo Hackett in their farewell appearance at the Colfax gym Friday night.

"I came all the way down from Holland to see a good game," one fan offered, "and I saw one, didn't I?" He certainly did.

Billed as one of the Top Ten games in the state Friday night by Swami Hal Schramm of the Detroit Free Press, the contest lived up to all expectations with the Tigers surviving continuous pressure to post their ninth straight victory and gain revenge for an earlier 13-point loss to Hackett, Michigan's third-ranked Class B team.

Led by guards John Hunt and Don Childs and super-sub Willie Lacy, the Tigers combined their lightning-quick fast break with good outcourt accuracy to produce a 50 per cent shooting performance that finally wore the Irish down.

Hunt missed his first five shots of the game but connected on 11 of 15 the rest of the way to lead both teams in scoring with 28 points — the top individual total by a Benton Harbor player this year.

Lacy added 19 points and Childs 17, hitting 7 of 13 and 8 of 14 respectively from the field. Center James Jackson got into early foul trouble but still managed to snag 10 rebounds in the second half and hit three baskets in four tries during the crucial fourth quarter.

Hackett forward Dave

Johnson had 26 points and 11 rebounds and Dave Grantham contributed 16 points for the Irish, who hit their first six shots of the game and 50 per cent during the first half before trailing off in the final two periods.

"We probably played our best two games in 10 years against Benton Harbor this season," Hackett coach John Rapacz said proudly of his team, which hit 62 per cent against the Tigers in the earlier victory.

"We made a few mistakes, but they have a fine team. I think they're the best team I've seen this year. I saw Lansing Sexton play Kalamazoo Central and I think Benton Harbor could beat either one of them."

Benton Harbor coach Earl McKee was no less complimentary.

"They could beat anybody we play," he said of the Irish. "What was the final score... 84-73? I'll take that."

Benton Harbor led almost the entire game after Hunt scored the final five points of the first quarter to put them ahead 17-16, but they were unable to put the Irish away until the final minute of play when Dave Williams and Childs combined to run off the last five points of the night.

Until then Hackett had kept the pressure on with scrappy rebounding and defense and outcourt shooting that was at times uncanny.

"I kept thinking we'd pull away there in the second half when we'd get ahead by four or six points," McKee said, "but they kept hitting those long jump shots to hang in there."

With 5:46 remaining Hackett called time out and switched from a 2-1-2 zone defense into a man-to-man and cut the Tigers' lead to 67-66 and 69-67, but then Jackson scored off a rebound, Hunt hit a jump shot and Jackson scored again to give the Tigers their first remotely comfortable lead of the night.

"That basket by Jackson was a big one when they had us down two points," McKee noted, "and so were those plays where Willie got the fouls from Johnson."

After Hackett had tied the game 41-41 early in the third quarter, Lacy drew two fouls from Johnson in 38 seconds on baseline drives, and the Irish were never quite as tough inside again.

Benton Harbor hit 35 of 70 shots and 14 of 22 free throws while Hackett sank 30 of 72 (.417) from the field and 13 of 16 from the free throw line.

Class A teams that have a combined 35-9 record.

The undefeated Tiger Cubs rolled to their 14th straight victory in the preliminary game, outscoring the Irish 55-13 in the second half to win

Bears Swamp Loy Norrix

By JOHN VANDEN HEED
Staff Sports Writer

The St. Joseph Bears won the hearts of their basketball fans Friday night.

They earned the affection by coming up with an early Valentine present in the form of their biggest win of the season.

By jilting Kalamazoo Loy Norrix 85-63 in a Big Six encounter at the St. Joe gym, the Bears also rolled up the second highest score allowed by the Knights this season. Only ninth-ranked Kalamazoo Central scored more with 89. Packy Ryan netted 25 points and Tom Crossman and substitute Brian Haack 10 apiece as St. Joe upped its season record to 7-5.

Loy Norrix, which has now lost four in a row in an overall 2-13 season, was playing without leading scorer Paul Buckman (14.2 average), who was out because of illness. Marcus Ezell topped Knight pointmakers Friday night with 22. John Mc Bride and Chuck Liebrant added 12 and 11, respectively.

"Certainly the game wasn't a classic," commented Bear coach George Gaumer, "but I thought our running game came around. That was our objective... to get that thing started."

St. Joe's biggest board advantage of the season (46-23), paced by 6-7 Tom Scheffler's 11 rebounds, enabled the Bears to run as well as they have all season, especially at the start of the second quarter.

But poor free throw shooting over the first three quarters (8 for 21) threatened to do the Bears in. St. Joe led by as many as 20 at 42-22 in the second period but had only a 54-48 advantage entering the fourth quarter. Fortunately, the Bears found the range from the charity line in the last eight minutes by meshing 13 of 15 free throws in a 31-point period which turned the game into a rout.

"We were leading the league in free throw shooting (71.4 per cent) and then we shoot like that," added Gaumer. "But they came back in the last quarter."

St. Joe used the big rebounding edge to get off 33 more shots than Norrix. The Bears meshed 32 of 81 field goals (40 per cent) and the Knights 25 of 48 (52 per cent). St. Joe finished at 21 for 37 in charities (57 per cent) while Norrix went 13 for 24 (54 per cent).

Coach Ray Berendt's

Knights were also hampered by 32 turnovers. St. Joe had 21.

St. Joe scored the first nine points of the game as Norrix was committing five of the turnovers. The Bears went on to lead 21-12 at the end of the period with the help of a press defense.

St. Joe then broke loose for some easy baskets off the fast break to start the second period. The Bears hit five of eight field goal attempts and scored 10 of 12 points before Norrix called time out. The Bears still went on to lead 42-26 at halftime.

St. Joe had its only bad quarter in the third frame by being outscored 22-12 while hitting just 5 of 16 field goals, 2 of 8 free throws and being guilty of seven turnovers.

"I don't know what it was really," continued Gaumer on the sudden turn of events which cut the St. Joe lead to six.

A big part of the comeback on Norrix's side was Ezell, who scored 20 of his 22 points in the second half while meshing 8 of 11 field goal attempts. But he alone was no match for the Bears' 31-point burst in the fourth quarter.

The results left St. Joe at 4-4 in the conference. Norrix is now 0-8.

Loy Norrix did win Friday night's junior varsity preliminary 75-70 after trailing 36-33 at halftime. Leading scorer for the Knights, now 8-6, was Ken Shotwell with 29. St. Joe, now 3-9, got 22 tallies from Dan Griswold and 18 from Tom Armstrong.

Eau Claire Topped By Surging Lakers

EAU CLAIRE — Lake Michigan Catholic continued its late-season surge here Friday night.

The Lakers, putting on a late spurt, downed Eau Claire 63-58 to earn their third straight victory.

Vytas Ambutas played a key role in the Laker victory. The 6-4 forward dropped in 15 points, his season's high, and ended with 10 rebounds.

"I think Ambutas was the big difference in the game," commented Eau Claire coach Jon Frye. "We didn't expect that kind of effort from him. He did a great job on the boards and hit six of seven shots from the field."

Dave Carnegie gave Ambutas plenty of support as he hit 16 points, sinking eight of 11 shots, and hauling down 16 rebounds. Gary Etter also netted 15 points.

The Beavers held a 46-43 lead early in the fourth period but then the Lakers caught fire midway through the period by reeling off 10 straight points.

"We couldn't do anything right in the second half," Frye added. "They got hot in the fourth quarter and we never could recover. Their press hurt us and we kept turning the ball over."

Center Bob Viverette and Bill Adams, a 6-0 freshman forward making his varsity debut, both canned 18 points for the Beavers. All of Viverette's points came in the second half.

The Lakers held a 42-31 rebounding advantage. LMC dumped in 28 of 66 shots outcourt for a 42 per cent average to Eau Claire's 24 of 54 for 44 per cent.

The Lakers hit seven of 19 free throws and the Beavers 10 of 18.

LMC is now 4-6 in Red Arrow action and Eau Claire 4-5.

Unbeaten Bangor Loses Game, Coach

G ALESBURG — Bangor lost a basketball game and a coach here Friday night.

Norm Johnson, who has been at the Viking helm since the 1964-65 season, made formal announcement of his resignation as head coach effective the end of this season following his team's 56-54 upset loss to Galesburg-Augusta.

It was the first loss of the season for Bangor, which went into the game with a 13-0 record and a No. 2 rating in the state Class C poll.

"I want to make it perfectly clear that the resignation has nothing to do with either the loss tonight or the disciplinary action I have taken against Walt Cloud," said Johnson.

"It was based solely on an accumulation of things that have been bothering me. And when it finally started affecting my health then I knew it was time to get out."

He tendered his resignation to the Bangor school administration Thursday.

Johnson has never had a losing record in his seven years at Bangor, while accumulating a 99-43 mark going into this season. He also won district tournament championships every year as Viking coach, but never made it past regionals.

Against Galesburg, Bangor was playing "shorthanded" with Walt Cloud sitting out the first of a two-game suspension. Johnson had benched his all-state center for disciplinary reasons.

"We really missed his rebounding and scoring," said Johnson. "But I thought we played as well as could be expected without him."

Although the game was close nearly all the way the Vikings were completely out-manned on the boards 42-28 and it proved to be the difference.

The Vikings trailed 17-16 after the first period but took the lead 25-21 after a low scoring second quarter.

They upped the margin to eight points early in the third period, but Galesburg rallied and went ahead by seven midway through the final period.

Retirement.

The end of work, or the beginning of worry?

Most people look toward retirement as a time of relaxation and enjoyment. And it can be if you prepare for it. But if you don't, it can be a time of worry and discontentment. A time when you can look back and think of a million ways that you could have saved, but didn't.

Well, there's no better time to think about retirement than now, while you're working.

One easy way to save on a regular basis is by purchasing U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months

(4½% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at
